From birth Troy Dixon was possessed of inalienable character. Staging across the world from teenage performer to Italian tray carrier, Troy started his working life delivering enthusiastic performances by selling the energy of his character.

Studying Integrated Marketing Communications at the University of Tulsa, his professional career subsequently started as a media sales person in broadcast television after graduation.

Through the ebbs and flows of the economy, Troy took on multiple media projects including video and photo editing to website coding, and a broad scope of activities to manage and increase both impressions and reputation for his clients.

Troy set up an independent LLC. as Dixon Multimedia: advertising, selling and promoting a number of Tulsa businesses and products.

Today, Troy is an Infantryman with the Oklahoma National Guard and is currently seeking employment for a company in Advertising.
